Il semble que sous Win 7, on ne puisse pas configurer les paramètres comme pour XP.

Je cite :

Configuring advanced System Restore settings - In Windows XP only, several System Restore settings can be configured via the Registry.[12] System Restore in Windows Vista and later versions no longer supports configuring its settings through the registry.[13] File types and file paths can also no longer be included or excluded from monitoring by System Restore by editing %windir%system32restoreFilelist.xml as was possible in Windows XP. This file no longer exists in Windows Vista and later.[6]
