Bonjour,

On peut utiliser/écrire des scripts batch ET les planifier dans le planificateur de tâches de Windows. Ce n'est pas une question de choix entre l'un ou l'autre.

Ceci dit j'ai jeté un coup d'œil à cet utilitaire qui me semble d'un intérêt limité.

Bernard

Je préfère utiliser Startup Delayer qui est disponible sur gratilog:

avec mes batch files et autres, qu'avec le Task Sheduler de Windows. Par exemple, tu es entrain de mettre à jour un fichier Excel et le Task Sheduler vient interférer dans ce que tu fais. Voici une prise d'écran de Startup Delayer de ma tour, ce qui me permet entre autres, de savoir si j'ai reçu des nouveaux courriels ou mails:
